

Susan Millsaps

Christian Conciliator and Christian Counselor

Clemson, South Carolina
Robbinsville, North Carolina

Since 2008 the tagline, “Navigating Conflict and Change,” has defined Susan’s mission to help Christian women and their families turn life’s difficult circumstances into flourishing growth gardens. The principles learned in Relational Wisdom 360 and Biblical Peacemaking transformed her relationships and informed her work as a Christian conciliator and counselor.

Her diverse personal background helps Susan engage clients with compassionate understanding gained through her own difficult life experiences and God’s healing work within her. Susan is well prepared to address a broad range of personal and family issues that surface in conflict situations through her education in Family Resources (BS), Public Health (Master of Public Health), specialized training in Maternal Child Health programs (NCAST), work at SC Dept. of Mental Health, plus her ongoing training in Christian conciliation and counseling,

While serving as the Certification Administrator for ICC Peace (2018-2019), she gained in-depth knowledge and experience in the field of Christian Conciliation. Susan is currently enrolled in the RW certification program and is a candidate in the ICC Certified Christian Conciliator program.

As a writer, she loves putting life experience, lessons learned, and her faith into words through her website blog, “Of Crooked Trees and Long Roads.” Twice a month, she hosts “Table Talk” via Zoom to help Christian women connect and learn Biblical principles (including RW360) focused on “Tending Your Growth Garden.”

Susan is the founder of Mills Cove, LLC (2005) and currently does business under the brand, Susan Millsaps, at susanmillsaps.com (formerly Between Steps). Today, she and her husband, Barry, split work time between the old homeplace in Robbinsville, North Carolina, and their home in Clemson, South Carolina. Christian Counseling and Conflict Resolution services are now offered in two beautiful locations as well as online.
